BRYAN, TEXAS, NOV. 24, 1909.

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF THE MOON.

There will be a total eclipse of the moon tomorrow night or, rather, Saturday morning. The moon enters the earth's penumbra a few minutes after midnight. At about a quarter after 2 o'clock she disappears completely in the shadow and continues totally obscured for an hour and twenty-three minutes. This is an unusually long time for two reasons: First, the shadow is larger because the moon is near the earth; second, the moon passes centrally through the shadow.

The moon will not be entirely blotted out, as would be the case if the earth had no atmosphere. The rays of the sun passing through our atmosphere are refracted or bent inward so as to throw a faint reddish light on her disc. This peculiar color is due to the fact that the red rays having a shorter wave length, are more affected by refraction than the other colors.

The time of the eclipse is very inconvenient for observation but there are doubtless some of our readers who will be willing to lose a few hours sleep to see the phenomenon.

The Bryan rooters for the A. and M. team did nobly at Houston and great was their reward. Let not our heroes lack support in the great battle at Austin tomorrow. Break loose and go. If your lungs are not A 1 and in good working order, beg, buy, borrow or steal a megaphone or something to make a noise. Scare the bats out of old Varsity's garret, shake the deep foundations of the capitol and terrify Austin with a noise like that made by Clan Alpin when,

"At once there rose so wild a yell
 Within that dark and narrow dell,
 As all the fiends from Heaven that fell
 Had pealed the battle cry of hell."

"If I could write the headlines over the news in the daily papers, I could produce a political revolution within a year," says Fred D. Warren. This opinion is based on the fact that everybody reads the headlines and many stop there, while most of those who read further are so under the impression made by the headlines that they give little attention to the statements made below. A careful reader will note that in some newspapers the headlines are sometimes misleading—purposely so. There are examples of such perversion of the news among the big dailies of Texas, we are sorry to say.

The Poles, the Czecks and the Russians are not so numerous in Bryan as they have been in the past but there are too many of them yet. As long as any of them survive they are enemies to our comfort and health. Our only safety lies in utter extermination.

One thing we are glad of: It isn't likely that anybody will ever any more run for office in Texas on a Confederate record.

James J. Hill says extravagance will be the ruin of this country if it isn't stopped. It is time for the scientists to get busy hunting for the extravagance germ.

It would be unconventional to say there is a lie out between Governor Campbell and the San Antonio Express. Let's call it an issue of veracity and let it go at that.

CORRECT—Attest: J. W. Howell, H. O. Boatwright, R. W. Howell, Directors

The campaign has not yet fairly opened but the campaign lie is flitting around. Some organs of factions seem to act on the principle that "a lie well stuck to is as good as the truth."

The farmer who has to buy his living must have a big bank account or go in debt. In the one case the farmer who always has something to sell gets it, in the other the merchant Talbot's last message to the world is a plea for peace. He appeals to the good sense of the people of all nations to refuse to serve as soldiers either voluntarily or by forced enlistment. Killing in war, he asserts, is a criminal act; war is organized murder. This doctrine is certainly in accord with the teachings of Jesus. All the casuistry of all the doctors of divinity on earth cannot reconcile war and christianity.

A Tribute of Genuine Worth

A man whose clothes fit him well, and give him the distinction of carefully studied style, is well dressed in Chicago, in Paris, in London.

Clothes which fall short in these qualities are as bad in one country as another—useless in any country—and are quickly passed by.

Men of discriminating fashions are wearing today, in the streets and clubs of London, clothes made in America by and bearing the Stein-Bloch label. Never before in her history has England witnessed such a sight.

It is a tribute worth while that Stein-Bloch are the only tailors in America who meet the Englishman's standards. It means that Englishmen, as well as Americans, have recognized in them the passport of the gentleman as indicated by the style and fit of his clothes.

The Fall and Winter collection of suits and overcoats is at your disposal, in your own home town, to be examined and tried on at your clothier's. Try them on. Their price is convenient to your purse and to your self-respect.

New "Printzess" Styles

That cleverly and accurately portray the very latest ideas of this season's refined styles

Many of the garments delineate the beautiful MOYEN AGE EFFECT, others similarly attractive in totally different stylish effects.
